FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Member David G. Tomeo Appointed Chair of Becker Meisel Litigation Department

Livingston, N.J., March 21, 2012 – Becker Meisel is proud to announce the appointment of member, David G. Tomeo, to chair of the firm’s Litigation Department. Rated "AV" by Martindale Hubbell - the highest peer-based ranking awarded by Martindale - Mr. Tomeo has been a member of the firm since 2008, focusing his practice on commercial litigation, including bankruptcy litigation and commercial and business suits, and complex insurance coverage matters involving general liability disputes, errors and omissions, professional liability, and other business coverages. Mr. Tomeo also has extensive experience in health insurance law, regularly handling cases involving interpretation of health insurance contracts.

“Dave has been a leader in the Litigation Department for some time now,” said firm Managing Member Martin Borosko. “We are excited about this appointment and extremely confident that his contributions will guide the department towards continued growth and success.”

Becker Meisel maintains an active civil litigation practice that encompasses the representation of a broad spectrum of clients in matters before state and federal courts, administrative agencies, and in various alternative dispute resolution forums. The department has the experience necessary to handle a matter -- whether straightforward or complex -- in an effective and efficient manner. Members are as adept at negotiating beneficial resolutions to disputes without resorting to litigation as they are in vindicating a client's rights in court through the full use of the adversarial process. In all instances, members work diligently with the client to establish the objective of the representation, and thereafter, to develop and employ the legal strategy best suited for achieving that objective.

In addition, the Litigation Department provides litigation support for all of the other practice areas within the firm.
